

Prof. Dr. Volker Harth

Position:

Director

Medical Specialist in Occupational Medicine

Department:

Institute for Occupational and Maritime Medicine, Germany

University:

Medical Center Hamburg-Eppendorf (UKE), Germany

Short Bio:

Volker Harth, MD, PhD, MPH, is a specialist in occupational medicine, environmental medicine and public health. Since 2013, he has headed the Institute for Occupational Medicine and Maritime Medicine (ZfAM) and holds the respective university professorship at UKE. As a principal investigator (PI), he is involved in various EU- and BMBF-funded research projects on issues in infectious diseases epidemiology (ARMIHN, HEALTHY GATEWAYS, SHIPSAN) and in the development of digital instruments for occupational health management (e-healthy SHIP). His publication record includes over 300 national and international publications. Since March 2020 he is leading the working group "Health and Work" in the Competence Network Public Health on COVID-19 (see <https://www.public-health-covid19.de/>). He is also deputy chair of the German Society for Occupational and Environmental Medicine (<https://www.dgaum.de/>)