

Dr. Evanthia Sakellari

Position: Associate Professor

Department of Public and Community Health

University or Organisation: University of West Attica

Short Bio: Evanthia Sakellari is Associate Professor in community health at the Department of Public and Community Health, University of West Attica. She holds a PhD on Health Sciences from the University of Turku (Finland). She has rich teaching experience in undergraduate and postgraduate level in Greece and internationally. Evanthia Sakellari has extensive experience in EU funded projects, including being the project lead of one. She is a member of the Research Laboratory of Hygiene and Epidemiology where she has established and leads the special academic unit of Health Promotion. She has long experience in designing, implementing and evaluating health promotion interventions targeting different population groups. She has extensive research experience nationally and internationally which has led to a number of publications in peer reviewed journals. She is working closely with the Ministry of Health in developing new approaches in the provision of primary health care and in the development of health promotion within different settings and among several population target groups.

Areas of expertise: Public and Community Health

Link to online full CV: <https://scholar.google.com/citations?user=P7pCqLMAAA&hl=en&oi=ao>